Why We Exist

The software that churches and nonprofits rely on to serve, disciple, and reach their communities is increasingly owned and controlled by a small handful of for-profit corporations backed by private equity firms—companies whose ultimate goal is to extract maximum profit, not to advance the mission of serving communities. This consolidation not only siphons millions of dollars away from ministry and mission work and into corporate pockets, but it leaves organizations beholden to vendors whose values often conflict with the very beliefs they profess.

At ChurchApps.org, we believe churches and nonprofits should never be dependent on systems that compromise their mission or drain their resources. That's why we exist: to set organizations free. We create free, open-source software so every organization—regardless of size or budget—can access world-class tools without entangling themselves in contracts, hidden fees, or agendas that undermine their values.

Partner with Us

By empowering churches and nonprofits with transparent, community-owned technology, we are helping them steward their finances wisely, protect their independence, and focus every dollar and every effort on what truly matters: making disciples and transforming lives. If your organization decides to use ChurchApps please help us further this mission by giving back so other organizations can benefit in the same way.
